- 7) the home of the "Grenadier Squaw," sister of Cornstalk, who throughout remained faithful to the Americans and who disguised two soldiers as Indians and sent them to the Greenbrier country eastward to warn the whites of the coming of their red enemies;
- 8) the chosen site for the capital of Vandalia, a projected Ohio River colony in which leading English and American officials were interested, including Benjamin Franklin. Their plan was abandoned with the coming of the Revolutionary War;
- 9) for several years--probably from 1788 to 1794--the farm and trading post of Daniel Boone, located approximately nine hundred yards northeast from the point near the site of Fort Randolph;
- 10) the proposed terminus of the James and Kanawha waterway, only a third of which was completed;
- 11) the burial place of "Mad Ann" Bailey, a woman frontier scout;
- 12) the site of Walter Newman's house or tavern, built in 1796 or 1797, restored and still standing-said to have been constructed of logs from the Fort Blair stable or store;
- 13) the site of a monument commemorating the battle, toward which the U. S. Congress contributed $10,000 by an Act of February 17, 1908;
- 14) the place of departure of forces under George Rogers Clark when they set forth on the conquest of the Northwest Territory;
- 15) the site of a ferry established in 1791 by Thomas Lewis, son of Andrew Lewis, who originally owned 9,000 acres of land at Point Pleasant;
- 16) place of assemblage of a brigade of troops under General Joel Leftwich, October 20, 1812, going westward in the War of 1812-1814;
- 17) General Cox' point of entry into Virginia during his Kanawha Valley campaign of 1861, War of the Rebellion, and the site of General Jenkins' raid in 1863;
- 18) close to the highway bridge across the Ohio which collapsed in 1967 with the loss of 46 lives, and also close to railroad bridges across both the Ohio and Kanawha embodying pioneer features in bridge-building;
- 19) the site of "Ann Bailey" Ferry which operated well over a century, until the building of the "Silver" Bridge" in 1928.
